

UNP-0126: Small-Scale Commercial Rabbit Production

Rabbit farming is one of the oldest forms of livestock production and a practical enterprise for limited-resource farmers. For consumers, rabbit meat is a healthy meat alternative that contains less fat and is high in protein than some red meat.

UNP-0126 Small-Scale Commercial Rabbit Production (formerly Raising Rabbits) is a great resource to get you started in the rabbit meat production business with information on breeding, housing, nutrition, diseases, to marketing your rabbit meat to consumers.

To order a copy of UNP-0126 Small-Scale Commercial Rabbit Production, complete the form below and make a check payable to: Urban Extension.

Mail form and check to:

Alabama Cooperative Extension System
Attn: Publications
P.O. Box 967
Normal, AL 35762

Name: _____

Address: _____

Phone: _____ Fax: _____

_____ # of Copies at $5.00 each

Questions: Please call the Communications Specialist at (256) 372-4953.

www.aces.edu/urban