

Lee Ann Clark
County Extension Coordinator
News Release

Extension's Onedayful Kids Event to be Held in June

The St. Clair County Extension office will host its annual Onedayful Kids event on Friday, June 22nd, 2007 at the McWane Center. The Center is a science museum where participants will learn about science and the world around them through the use of multimedia and interactive exhibits. The center houses four floors of exciting interactive science exhibits and displays.

In its 15th year, the Onedayful Kids summer youth event has provided the children of St. Clair County "one-day-full" of fun and learning through a variety of different activities. The event is FREE and limited to the first 60 St. Clair County children, 6-10 years old, who register to attend. Participants will be provided with a t-shirt, snacks, lunch, and transportation to the event.

Registration forms can be picked up at the St. Clair County Extension office. They are also available online at www.aces.edu/StClair. For more information about the McWane Science Center visit www.mcwane.org. If you have questions or need further information, please contact Lee Ann Clark, County Extension Coordinator at (205) 338-9416 or email clarkla@auburn.edu. Registration deadline is June 8th, 2007. Don't wait—register today!

We would like to thank the St. Clair County Commission for their support of this year's event.

Issued in furtherance of Cooperative Extension work in agriculture and home economics, Acts of May 8 and June 30, 1914, and other related acts, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Alabama Cooperative Extension System (Alabama A&M University and Auburn University) offers educational programs, materials, and equal opportunity employment to all people without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, veteran status, or disability. To learn more about ACES visit our website at www.aces.edu.