

Early January 2007

Published in cooperation with the NRCS, Alabama Dep. Agric. & Industries, ADEM, Alabama Poultry & Egg Assoc., ALFA, Alabama Dep. Public Health, and others

---

---

Biosystems Engineering Department

Auburn University, AL 36849-5626

334-844-4181

CAWV RE- REGISTRATION SITE IS UP AND RUNNING!

The CAWV re-certification training and testing is NOW IN PLACE for CAWVs

The following email message has been sent to all CAWVs with a 31 December 2006 certification expiration date on their pocket cards (if we had a valid email address).

Subject: CAWV RE-CERTIFICATION SITE UP and READY

Go to <http://www.aces.edu>, the Alabama Cooperative Extension System homepage.

Then click on Agriculture from the menu listed on the left hand side of this page.

Then click on Alabama Animal Waste Management.

Then click on CAWV Certified Animal Waste Vendor Homepage from the menu listed on the left hand side of this page.

From the CAWV Certified Animal Waste Vendor Homepage, click on A WebCT Based CAWV Training & Education Verification Site.

Look for, and click on, Re-Certification CAWV Training. Good luck!

CAWV recertification training has 2 parts, phosphorus index and the skeleton plan concept and should take less than 2 hours to complete. The purpose of this is to provide additional focused training for re-certifying CAWVs to equip them to better serve their customers who may not have a nutrient management plan for using litter. This focused training will also provide continuing educational units for CAFO owner/operators.

The 30-question Re-Certification Exam has a 1 hour time limit to allow plenty of time not to feel rushed.

Ray Hilburn, Al Department of Ag & Industries
Ted Tyson, Extension Biosystems Engineer, AU

Local Alabama Cooperative Extension Offices may be the most convenient public location for WebCT access.

Ted Tyson

Extension Biosystems Engineer
(tysontw@auburn.edu)

Charles Mitchell

Extension Agronomist
(mitchc1@auburn.edu)