

Educate Others and Raise Awareness

Now that these youth have knowledge and ideas about hunger and poverty, causes and solutions, they are fully equipped to get out there and educate others! Design your own curriculum, activities, skits, presentations, etc. Work with younger children to engage them and educate them about hunger and poverty. Work with other groups in your community and the adults! Get the word out. When the community is aware of the problem and energized by its youth, you will get more support from them for various other activities.

The following websites are full of ideas, information, links to other websites, success stories, and even more curricula for teaching youth about hunger:
