If you ever had a pond question, or are considering building a pond you will want to know about an upcoming workshop. Thursday, November the 12th 2009, the Alabama Cooperative Extension System will have an all day workshop in Mobile Alabama, covering a range of pond related topics.

Speakers from the Army Corps of Engineers will be on hand to discuss the permitting processes involved with new pond construction, while the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) will cover pond construction. In addition to these topics, management considerations including stocking, harvesting, vegetation control, water quality and stream side management will be addressed by Extension Specialists. The workshop will conclude with a Panel Discussion, which will allow for additional questions from attendees.

The registration fee for this workshop is $45.00, and you must register in advance. You may contact me (251.438.5690 or waterph@aces.edu) or Beau Brodbeck (251.259.6507 or brodbam@auburn.edu) to register, or for more information including times, locations and directions.

For additional questions or information, contact P.J. Waters, Auburn University Marine Extension and Research Center, 438-5690.
