

Bake Off

ALABAMA 4-H
Alabama Cooperative
Extension System

Have you ever imagined that you were a famous pastry chef? You stand in front of an audience, using your knowledge and creativity to prepare wonderful, amazing dishes. Bake Off is your chance to do that—at least on an introductory level.

2026–2027 Theme: STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math)

What You Will Do

- Exhibit your skills with different cooking techniques.
- Share a favorite traditional or original recipe.
- Show how to prepare a tasty and healthy dish.

What You Will Learn

Besides getting to try new and tasty dishes, 4-H Bake Off will make you a smarter and more imaginative chef. It will also make your meals and snacks healthier and more interesting.

- To make good food decisions, ensuring that every dish is part of a healthy diet.
- To make shopping lists and food menus.
- To demonstrate how well you handle yourself in the kitchen.
- Good culinary techniques.
- How to teach others by presenting your knowledge before a live audience.

For more information, visit “Competitive Events General Policy” and “Alabama 4-H Eligibility,” both on the Alabama Extension website (aces.edu).

LEVELS OF COMPETITION

Junior Level I:

9 to 11 years old on December 31 of the current calendar year (compete only at local and regional levels).

Intermediate:

12 to 13 years old on December 31 of the current calendar year (compete only at local and regional levels).

Senior Level I:

14 to 15 years old on December 31 of the current calendar year.

Senior Level II:

16 to 18 years old on December 31 of the current calendar year.

Rules for All Levels

Note: Due to nut allergies, no nut products will be permitted, including all tree nuts, legumes, and peanut butter. You should review your recipe and all of its ingredients with your 4-H Extension agent to ensure that you are in compliance.

Each participant must plan and prepare an attractive exhibit of baked foods to display on a tabletop no larger than 3 feet deep and 3 feet wide.

1. Participants will include in the exhibit baked products from two of the four categories:
 - Cookies (1 dozen)
 - Cupcakes (1 dozen)
 - Quick Bread (muffins, biscuits, cornbread, banana bread)
 - Brownies (1 dozen)

No prepared mixes allowed.

Due to nut allergies, no nut products will be permitted, including all tree nuts, legumes, and peanut butter. You should review your recipe and all of its ingredients with your 4-H Extension agent to ensure that you are in compliance.

All items must be baked; no no-bake items, such as cake pops or no-bake cakes or cookies.

2. Recipes for the products exhibited must either be included in the exhibit or copies of the recipes must be available at the exhibit.
3. Each exhibit should include a 12×12-inch poster with the title of the exhibit. The poster should be supported by a table easel or constructed to stand on its own.
4. The 4-H member will answer questions about the exhibit, food preparation, and the place of breads in a balanced diet.
5. The 4-H member should be neatly dressed in clean clothes and shoes.

Each participant will be judged in these areas:

1. Exhibitor (4-H member). 20 points. General appearance, enthusiasm, knowledge of the exhibit, neatness, and manners.
2. Exhibit. 55 points. Theme, attractiveness, creativity, appearance, and taste.
3. Subject Matter. 25 points. Educational, timely, and with stress on nutrition.

Disqualifications of Entry

1. Using a board larger than 12×12 inches (no trifold boards).
2. Using a prepared (boxed) mix as an ingredient.
3. Senior Level 4-H member not submitting a community service report.
4. Keep the display neat and organized.

Community Service

Telling a great story, showcasing projects at a community library, speaking at a local nursing home, or organizing a community cooking or building blocks workshop are great opportunities to serve others. Serving others helps you build academic skills, learn civic responsibility, and develop leadership. It may also give you a good opportunity to meet new people, publicize 4-H, and practice your communication skills. Alabama 4-H is now requiring all Senior Level 4-H members to add a community service component to all 4-H Competitive Events. Each Senior Level 4-H member will have to complete the 4-H Community Service Report as a part of his or her project. 4-H members will be disqualified if the community service report is not included.

You must decide what service you can provide and not have a parent or 4-H leader make this decision for you. Groups of young people are encouraged to work together to discover how they can serve their community.

Career Connections

Culinary Job Descriptions

Skills developed through this project have direct connections to exciting and rewarding careers. Restaurants, hotels, and other food service industries often employ three distinct types of employees—chefs, cooks, and food preparation workers. Visit www.culinarycareer.net for more information about culinary careers.

Chefs are responsible for directing the activities of other kitchen workers, planning menus, creating recipes, ordering food and supplies, and performing some specific cooking duties. They are typically the most experienced and best educated members of the staff.

Cooks are responsible for the day-to-day food preparation at the restaurant or facility. Depending on the size of the facility, there may be several cooks, each responsible for a different part of the menu or a different type of food. For example, there are fry cooks, vegetable cooks, pastry cooks, and other specialties.

Food Preparation Workers are under the supervision of chefs and cooks and typically perform less skilled duties. For example, they may chop vegetables, prepare salads, and prepare materials used by the restaurant's chefs and cooks.

Food Service Managers are often responsible for many of the behind-the-scenes activities that keep the establishment going. Food service managers have responsibilities ranging from ordering food and supplies, selecting menu items and determining their prices, and ensuring the high quality of food preparation and service. They are frequently responsible for administrative tasks.

In accordance with Federal law and U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) civil rights regulations and policies, this institution is prohibited from discriminating because of race, color, national origin, sex (including gender identity and sexual orientation), age, disability, and reprisal or retaliation for prior civil rights activity.
